STRATEGIC THEME 1: PRODUCING FAMILY DOCTORS WHO MEET SOCIETAL NEEDS THROUGH A COMMITMENT TO CONTINUING COMPREHENSIVE CARE

Naming keynote address for Family Medicine Innovations in Research and Education Day

Beginning in 2016, the keynote address during the Family Medicine Innovations in Research and Education Day at Family Medicine Forum will be named the Dr Ian McWhinney Keynote Address. This will honour Dr Ian McWhinney's tremendous contributions to family medicine.

MOTION THAT to honour Dr Ian McWhinney's tremendous contributions to Family Medicine, the keynote address during the Family Medicine Innovations in Research and Education Day at Family Medicine Forum will be named the "Dr Ian McWhinney Keynote Address".

Recognition of the achievement of enhanced skills training

A certificate of added competence is a certificate that is achieved upon meeting enhanced skills in family medicine competency requirements. Effective immediately, universities will be asked to provide the CFPC with a list of individuals who have successfully completed a Category 1 enhanced skills residency training program. The CFPC will then contact the individuals and offer them an opportunity to apply for a certificate of added competence. It is at this point that the expectations for maintaining the certificate of added competence will be outlined, and individuals will complete a form confirming their acceptance of these parameters, and thereby their wish to be granted a certificate of added competence.

MOTION THAT with the advent of Certificates of Added Competence (CACs), the CFPC discontinue the awarding of attestations.

Family Medicine Specialty Committee

The purpose of the Family Medicine Specialty Committee is to advise the CFPC Board on all matters related to Academic Family Medicine. The Committee will define the educational components of the specialty and will set policies and standards to enhance the effectiveness of medical education within the discipline of family medicine while ensuring a link between education and practice. The Family Medicine Specialty Committee will complete its membership composition by approaching an Enhanced Skills Program Director, and clarifying that either the Chair or a designate from the Board of Examiners, Accreditation Committee and a designate from the Advisory Committee on Family Practice are desired.

MOTION THAT the board approves the terms of reference for the Family Medicine Specialty Committee.

CanMEDS Consortium

The CFPC is part of a national body that serves the medical profession by providing ongoing input related to the CanMEDS 2015 Physician Competency Framework. The CFPC is one of three co-chairs of the CanMEDS Consortium, along with the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada and the Association of Faculties of Medicine of Canada.

The CFPC has endorsed CanMEDS 2015 with the recognition from the rest of the consortium that the CFPC will be adapting CanMEDS to CanMEDS-FM for postgraduate curriculum purposes. This additional clarity will help university departments to support undergraduate and postgraduate training while dialoguing with colleagues from other specialties who supervise family medicine residents.

MOTION THAT effective June 2016, the Board support the CFPC's involvement in the CanMEDS Consortium, with the opportunity in the fall of 2016 to review the final details and signal its approval.

STRATEGIC THEME 2: SUPPORTING MEMBERS IN MAINTAINING COMPETENCE THROUGHOUT THEIR PROFESSIONAL CAREERS

Certificate of added competence maintenance plan

The delivery of family medicine services is constantly evolving. Certificate of added competence holders will be required to acquire 75 certified credits over a 5-year cycle per certificate of added competence domain, regardless of the number of certificates of added competence they hold.

MOTION THAT the Board approves an amendment to the previously approved certificate of added competence (CAC) continuing professional development requirements.
