As you savour the warm days, cool evenings and abundant harvest season of the late summer, we remind you that on the horizon, fall brings a flurry of new prospects for family medicine researchers. This is our summer vacation version of Kaleidoscope-keeping it short and simple! We will be back with the full version of our newsletter in October.

A number of new funding opportunities, designed specifically to stimulate innovation in primary care research, were launched in July by the Canadian Institutes of Health Research. They offer targeted funding for primary care researchers to nurture their ideas and transform them into evidence-based innovations in primary care delivery. These funding opportunities are available as follows:

Plans for the 5th Annual CFPC Family Medicine Research Day are moving along briskly! We are all looking forward to a stimulating day of family medicine research presentations, scientific posters, and the Section of Researchers' Annual General Meeting over the lunch hour. Be sure to join us on Wednesday, October 28, at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Calgary.

The Section of Researchers' annual Dinner and Awards Presentation will be held in the evening, immediately following the Research Day presentations. It will take place in Calgary's Heritage Park at the historic Wainwright Hotel, an authentic recreation of an actual hotel and saloon from the turn of the 20th century.

Since these events are being held prior to the FMF, pre-registration is required for the daytime program, the S of R Annual General Meeting and the S of R dinner. Tickets for dinner will not be available on site, so please remember to purchase them before the close of pre-registration on October 12, 2009.

We also encourage you to stay on for the FMF, which runs from Thursday, October 29 - Saturday, October 31. Click here to register here for FMF 2009!

We look forward to seeing you there!
